Problem Statement

- Many individuals struggle to understand how to save effectively, invest wisely, or avoid overspending because their financial habits, income streams, and goals vary widely. Generic advice often misses the mark - especially for gig workers, informal sector employees, or those with irregular finances.

Agentic AI Challenge:- Develop a financial coaching agent that continuously learns about individual user behavior by integrating varied financial data streams and proactively analyzing spending and income patterns, identify risks, and deliver personalized recommendations and reminder

Solution

- The model helps the user purchase a specific product but tracking similar products and giving better alternatives with cheaper price or at times match user needs.
- Motivates earning more by showing how similar gig workers in their area earn and save
- Analyzes past and projected income to alert users of lean periods, advises reducing non-essential spending, saving more, and allocates money efficiently for stability.
- User can forward Sms related to fraud offers which will be checked by the AI to alert user to not fall into false investment jad rewards.
